This building is situated in the heart of the exclusive Mayfair neighbourhood. It is now a luxury hotel but was originally built as a magnificent 18th century mansion, built overlooking the tranquil gardens of Grosvenor Square and has a very aesthetically pleasing Georgian façade.

However, over time the stonework has become discoloured and worn. C & D Restoration Ltd was employed to undertake a full cleaning and restorative programme to the rear in order to return it to its original grandeur.

Applying mist sprays (Nebula Spray System) of water directly onto the stonework and brickwork at repeated intervals drawing all dirt and grime from the building. Bristle brushes were then used to remove the top layers of dirt. The jet wash was then used to wash clean all the Portland limestone and brickwork back to its natural condition.

Stone repairs were then carried out using a Portland limestone mix which was developed to match the exact colour and texture of the existing stone.

Cleaning of the glazed brickwork around the open light wells and re-grouting was also undertaken. Not only has the work carried out restored the façade with respect to its original aesthetics, it has also prolonged the life of the building as it has reduced the effects of wear and erosion.
